ExactShot applies a dose of liquid fertilizer on each seed as it enters the furrow during planting. This saves on input costs and maximizes productivity by reducing the number of refills per field.

- Apply liquid fertilizer with two different modes: dosing or continuous stream.
- Up to 66% reduction in fertilizer inputs while applying the same effective rate of fertilizer on each seed, when using dosing mode.

FAMILY CONFIGURATIONS

AutoPath™ (Boundaries)

Using advanced driven field boundaries and machine widths, AutoPath (boundaries) automatically creates tracks for the entire field, including headlands. Best of all, you can use those same tracks to plan for the entire season... from tillage and seeding to spraying and harvest. Reduce setup time, conserve fuel, and be confident your operators have the right tracks from start to finish.

Choose the Track Generation Method that Works Best for You:

- Heading Angle
- Align to Boundary
- From Existing Tracks

Increase Your Effectiveness

Say goodbye to the hassle of swapping and managing multiple guidance tracks while working in a field, because AutoPath provides you a single plan with guidance tracks that cover the entire field. This includes finding the perfect first pass, helping you reduce overlap and partial passes. With AutoPath, field work becomes more efficient and easier to complete, no matter who's driving.
